The intention of this cash incentive is to help support and develop the local running community in the state of Indiana. For that reason, the following is our formal policy:

Indicators of residency may include:

- renting, leasing, or owning property which you use as your primary residence
- possessing a current Indiana driver's license with an Indiana state address
- being registered to vote in Indiana

By themselves, none of the above indicators is sufficient evidence, as, for example, many people fail to surrender their Indiana driver's licenses even when required by the jurisdictions at which they currently live. U.S. citizenship is not required.

In any case, applicant should be able to show convincing indications of having lived in Indiana for:

- Currently (on the date of the upcoming IMM), and at least 67% of the year back to the previous IMM.
- Currently (on the date of the upcoming IMM), and at least 90% of the year back to January 1st of the current year.

As a current student at a college, university, or technical school or as an active duty member of the armed forces, you meet the requirements of residency if you:
